IN THE SPECIFICATION:

Please replace the paragraph spanning page 49, lines 2 and 3, with the following amended paragraph.

~~A method and an article of manufacture for timing multiple events using a simple timer are described.~~ A method to determine when to send a signal may include receiving a set of durations. The set of durations may include at least two time durations, and each duration may correspond to a respective action signal to be sent at the end of the respective duration. The method may also include determining an expiration time corresponding to each duration and selecting the expiration time that is first to occur to provide a selected expiration time. The action signal corresponding to the selected expiration time may be sent when the selected expiration time occurs.
